INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks dividend income and long-term capital growth primarily through investments in stocks.

Invests 65% of total assets in common stocks of dividend-paying companies that we expect to increase their dividends over time and provide long-term appreciation.

In selecting stocks, we favor companies with the following:

- Above-average earnings and dividend growth
- Competitive current dividend yield
- Sound balance sheet and cash flow to support future dividend increases

BENEFITS AND RISKS

Dividend-paying stocks are generally less volatile than those paying below-average dividends or none at all.

The fund's focus on dividend-paying companies could result in significant investments in large-capitalization stocks, which may lag shares of smaller, faster-growing companies.

As with all equity funds, this fund's share price can fall because of weakness in the broad market, a particular industry, or specific holdings.

Rowe Price Dividend Growth Fund - Advisor Class shares the portfolio of an existing fund (referred to as the "investor class") that began operations on December 30, 1992. Total return figures for the class have been calculated using the performance data of the investor class up to the Advisor Class's inception date and the actual performance results of the Advisor Class since that date. Performance results of the investor class have not been adjusted to reflect the 12b-1 fee associated with the Advisor Class; had this fee been included, performance would have been lower. The average annual total return figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, if any. The fund(s) may have other share classes available that offer different investment minimums and fees. See the prospectus for details. For Sourcing Information, please see Additional Disclosures.
